

Collingwood Neighbourhood House Board Nominees

2026-2027

Henry Ng:

Henry has been a part of the Renfrew-Collingwood area for over 35 years. As a child, Collingwood was the backdrop for his activities and festivities, and as an adult, it became the community that supported his family's needs. Now, Henry focuses on prioritizing Information Technology capital funding, ensuring it is allocated where it's needed most. He also oversees large-scale projects and project managers, helping to remove roadblocks and reporting on project progress and financials. Henry holds a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science from the University of British Columbia and a Management of Technology MBA from Simon Fraser University. Having benefited greatly from CNH over the years, Henry is committed to giving back to the community that has provided so much for him and his family through his expertise and neighbourhood familiarity.

Jason Chan:

Jason was born and raised in Vancouver and attended UBC, where he worked toward his CPA designation. He spent several years in various industries as an accountant, then moving on to a financial analyst role. During his personal time, he likes to take friends and family to try new restaurants and see community festivals. Previous volunteer work was with VanDusen Botanical Garden Association, Toastmasters International, and Lions Club. It is his hope that he can make a difference for CNH. He has lived in the Collingwood neighbourhood since 2009 and frequently shops at local businesses.

Adrian Myers:

Adrian Myers is a long-time East Vancouver resident and homeowner in Renfrew-Collingwood since 2017, where he lives with his wife and three children, who attend Renfrew Elementary School. After learning more about Collingwood Neighbourhood House and its significant impact in the community, he was inspired by the breadth of its programs and services and the difference it makes in the lives of so many. Adrian is a Senior Relationship Manager in Indigenous Relations at BC Hydro, where he works closely with First Nations communities on BC's North Coast. Previously, he served as Senior Strategic Advisor to BC Hydro's CEO, providing strategic advice and supporting executive leadership, government relations, and Board governance processes. Adrian holds a BA and MBA from UBC and a PhD from Stanford University. In addition to his professional experience, Adrian serves on the Board of Fundamaya Canada, a nonprofit organization supporting educational opportunities for children in rural Guatemala. He looks forward to contributing his varied experience to help Collingwood Neighbourhood House continue to thrive and serve the community.

Kevin Bowie:

Kevin Bowie's professional role as a Relationship Manager with viaSport British Columbia, he is responsible for stewarding the BC Government's investment in Provincial Sport Organizations. He consults and collaborates with these organizations in their effort to strengthen non-profit governance models, meet the needs of their communities and deliver safe and inclusive sport experiences from grassroots to high performance. Kevin also serves as a Board Director from the Coaches Association of Canada with the vision of advancing high-quality coach education in collaboration with Federal, Provincial & Territorial Governments. Prior to these roles he spent 15 years working in Paralympic sport in all aspects, from building community programming to leading his sport at the Paralympic Games. His work in disability inclusion and sport, more broadly, have instilled a strong sense of connection to the community. His values of collaboration, inclusion and curiosity stem from his work as coach, leader and board member. These values inspire him to give back, connect more deeply and strengthen opportunities for his friends and neighbours. He is looking forward to the opportunity to connect his values and background in non-profit governance to the Collingwood Neighbourhood House Board of Directors. There is so much fantastic work going on in the community and he can't wait to be a part of it!

Jessica Chang:

Jessica Chang grew up in Renfrew-Collingwood and is fortunate to call this community her home. She has seen the community flourish into the vibrant neighbourhood it is today and recognizes the importance of advocating for an environment for individuals to grow and belong. Jess is committed to giving back to the community that has given her the terrain to make mistakes and learn to become a better person. Jess' background is in working in the non-profit healthcare system and supporting community resources. In her spare time, Jess enjoys exploring trails with her husky.
